Dive In (10 Minutes)

Go around and let everyone share... What is a time when you had to walk into a high-stakes room, an important meeting, or a tense situation feeling anxious or unsure of your welcome, only to realize you actually had full access or a warm invitation? How did that shift your posture and mindset once you stepped inside?

Dig Deep (40 Minutes)

Read Hebrews 10:19-25 aloud.

- Verses 19–21 ground our access to God in the blood of Jesus, the "new and living way" opened through the curtain, and Jesus serving as our great high priest over God's house. Under the old covenant, entering the Most Holy Place was restricted, rare, and fraught with fear. How does understanding the cost of our access through Jesus transform how we approach God in worship?

- Look closely at verse 22, which calls us to draw near to God with a "sincere heart and with the full assurance that faith brings," having our hearts sprinkled to cleanse us from a guilty conscience and our bodies washed with pure water. Why do lingering guilt, shame, or half-heartedness keep people at arm's length from God, and how does full assurance in Christ invite us closer?

- Focus on verse 23, which urges us to hold unswervingly to the hope we profess because "he who promised is faithful." Worship isn't just about what we feel in a single moment; it's anchored in God's unchanging promises. How does resting in God's faithfulness help us keep our grip on hope when circumstances pull us toward doubt or discouragement?

- Consider verse 24, where the focus shifts outward: "And let us consider how we may spur one another on toward love and good deeds." Notice that this requires intentional thought ("consider") rather than accidental connection. What does it look like in everyday life to thoughtfully encourage fellow believers toward love and obedience rather than merely criticizing or coasting alongside them?

Do Big (10 Minutes)

- Look at verse 25, which warns against not giving up meeting together—especially as "you see the Day approaching"—and instead encouraging one another all the more. Why is community not an optional add-on to worship, and how does gathering faithfully with other believers strengthen our endurance as we look toward Christ's return?
- Who is one person you can intentionally spur on toward love and good deeds this week, and how will you show up for them?
